4.1 Select Themes for Upcoming Library Fine Art Shows

- o December 1, 2016 - February 27, 2017
- o March 1, 2017 - May 30, 2017
- o June 1, 2017 - August 30, 2017
- o September 1, 2017 - November 30, 2017

The committee discussed various topics for the next year's art shows. Committee member Driscoll suggested that a Great Masters theme art show would provide a great educational opportunity in the library. Coordinator Ozlanski will provide proper signage to share historical information about the Great Masters to coincide with the local artists' work. Driscoll further suggested the theme of Alphabet Soup to emphasize art as language and the use of typography in art. Chairman Bates discussed the internal inspiration that artists rely on and how this could be included in a future show. Committee member Kaino suggested history as an overarching theme and suggested a show that would involve Three Rivers Historical Society by pairing artists with Goodyear Pioneers. At this time it was decided that it would be best to begin with an art show specifically centered on history and have this be the first step in working towards a program that could involve both Three Rivers Historical Society and Goodyear artists. Bates stated this would be a good first step in developing a strong grant proposal for future funding to support this type of long-term project. Kaino further noted that she would like a show to be about unity as this is a “timely” topic.

The committee identified the following four themes for the next art shows on the dates noted:

- December 1, 2016 - February 27, 2017: The Great Masters
- March 1, 2017 - May 30, 2017: Our Environment
- June 1, 2017 - August 30, 2017: Alphabet Soup
- September 1, 2017 - November 30, 2017: Visualizing History
